About Vijñāna Parishad of India

Dr. R.C. Singh Chandel (Orai) with the inspiration of Dr. B.B. Lal (Principal), founded Vijñāna Parishad of India (Society for Applications of Mathematics) with its Head Office at D.V. Postgraduate College (Bundelkhand University), Orai, U.P., India in 1971, with a vision of making it a society of International repute and dedicated to the Applications of Mathematics in all fields of Science and Technology. Later Prof. H. M. Srivastava (Victoria, Canada) and Late Prof. J. N. Kapur (Kanpur/Delhi) joined hands with Dr. Chandel and took this society to new heights. Vijñāna Parishad of India has a crucial role to play because it is the only society in India explicitly devoted to this goal.

The Mathematical "Panorama"

If we look at mathematics as a whole, it is often described as a unity. Despite being split into many branches, the deeper you go, the more you realize that Geometry, Algebra and analysis etc. all are interconnected. A single "word" for the tour would be "Quadrivium". To manifest with this objectives we may arrange Cultural programs and sightseeing tours for participants to nearby tourist spots.
